JUL -2 1921

It was a lazy day at the sweetwater post, the boys were cleaning up the Barracks. The sergeant was sitting at his desk half asleep when a rock was thrown thru the window, with a note attached.

"If you don't turn Joe Morley loose the Government is going to lose a Mounter". Rushing to the window they saw a ragged kid about 14 years old running away, they took after the kid but lost him in the woods.

Corporal Campbell immediately followed on horseback, later in the day thru his binoculars he saw the kid on a distant slope, he rode up and found the kid with two jugs containing liquor, he handcuffed the kid to a tree and proceeded to a cave in the rocks where he captured two moonshiners that were making the Liquor.

Returning with them he got the kid and proceeded to Barracks, arriving there at mealtime the sergeant put the two moonshiners in a cell and started to put the kid in the cell but Campbell said, "he is such a little shaver and so hungry can't he eat with us and sleep out here". In the morning they found the cell door open and all three gone, the sergeant and private joked the Corporal, he is such a little shaver, but he let them out. The Sergeant looked out the Door and saw the kid coming back, the kid told them that the moonshiners under the seats had forced him to steal the keys and let them out. The kid took her hat off and showed she was a girl and told them her story of how her Father died and these two moonshiners had taken her and beat her and forced her to dispose of the liquor they made, dressing her in boys clothes.

The officers called in the Padre and asked him what they could do with the girl, he suggested that they all chip in and send her to a Convent in the City.

The Girl arrived at the Convent dressed in a Mounted Police Coat and a cheap dress, the rest of the children make fun of her.

Meantime Campbell and his Buddy hit the Trail after the escaped moonshiners and finally capture them after a fight, while at the convent the Girl wrote many letters to Campbell whom she called Daddy Jim, after three years of schooling she turned out to be a beautiful Girl and returned to the post with the Padre, where Corporal Campbell fell in love with her and asked her to be his wife.
